the master of the castle, a horrible beast, who takes him captive. Belle eventually finds her father, but must give up her freedom to save his life. As the beast's inner kindness slowly reveals itself, Belle grows to love him.

Doerries serving as OCC Choral Director

Mark Doerries joined Olney Central College in January as its Director of Choral Activities.

The Virginia native is finishing his doctorate in conducting at Indiana University in Bloomington and holds a master's degree in choral conducting from Temple University in Philadelphia. He earned bachelor's degrees in both biology and music from the College of William and Mary in Williamsburg, Va.

"I'm enjoying my time here," Doerries said. "I have eager students who are interested in pushing boundaries. I enjoy students that not only think outside the box, but create new ones."

After completing his bachelor's degree in biology, Doerries received a research grant to explore chemosynthetic deep-sea ecosystems. He also sailed a double-masted brigantine tall vessel from Massachusetts to Bermuda studying the migration paths of eastern Atlantic eel populations.

Mark Doerries

"It was an incredible experience," he said of sailing. "You became very self-sufficient. You couldn't see the land and had to navigate using the stars. It was just you and the ocean."

Doerries later published articles in the journals Marine Ecology and Deep-Sea Research.

While he enjoyed the experiences and research, Doerries ultimately decided to pursue his passion for music.

"I loved biology and my parents are both professors in the sciences, but I think I felt creatively music was more fulfilling than research," he said. "I enjoyed research, but I didn't derive the same pleasure from it as I did music."

Doerries decided to attend graduate school in music and moved to New York City where he studied at Queens College before completing his degree at Temple University in 2007. While at Temple, Doerries founded the Luminescence Project, an ensemble dedicated to the performance of multi-sensory music. The ensemble's unique productions fuse lights, dance and film. The ensemble has performed at the Philadelphia Live Arts and Fringe Festival and the Bloomington Arts Festival as well as the Indiana University Art Museum.

In the latest production, Doerries merges a rock concert and classical music. He rewrote Johann Sebastian Bach's St. John Passion for saxophone and guitar.

"I enjoy taking classical events and turning them into staged non-traditional multi-disciplinary works," he added.

Doerries has traveled extensively. He has performed with the University of Sao Paulo Chorus and Orchestra in Brazil and as a soloist with Venezuela's Simon Bolivar Orchestra. He also studied conducting and German in Freiburg, Germany.

"I try to go to as many places as I can and live there," he said. "I try to be a part of the culture while I'm traveling and meeting people."

Doerries currently conducts the Indiana University Children's Choir - Chamber Chorus and recently served as an assistant conductor and chorus master to Indiana University's Opera Theatre and Ballet.

He has served as an associate instructor at Indiana University and taught undergraduate conducting at Temple University.

Doerries resides in Olney with his wife, Hillary.

Music Department Winter Concert Feb. 25-26

The Olney Central College Music Department will present its Winter Concert at 7:30 p.m. on Friday, Feb. 25 and Saturday, Feb. 26 at 7:30 p.m. in the Dr. John D. Stull Performing Arts Center.

This concert will feature the OCC Concert Band and Jazz Ensemble under the direction of Suzanne Downes, and the OCC Concert Choir under the direction of the new Director of Choral Activities, Mark Doerries.

The Concert Band will be performing "Suite from Bohemia" by Vaclav Nehlybel, "Shenandoah" by Frank Ticheli, and the Sousa march favorite

"The Thunderer." The Concert Choir will present works whose texts are taken from the world of classic literature. Selections include a setting of text by William Shakespeare, "Blow, Blow, Thou Winter Wind"; the words of W. B. Yeats in "The Lake Isle of Innisfree"; "Dirait-on" from "Les Chansons des Roses" by Lauridsen; "Three Madrigals" by Diemer and the folk song "Homeward Bound" set by Jay Althouse.

The Jazz Ensemble will be featuring the individual musicians as each student will be showcased as a soloist throughout the evening on "Alright, OK, You Win" by Wyche and

Watts; "St. Thomas" by Sonny Rollins; "Blues in the Night" by Mercer and Arlen and "C Jam Blues" by Duke Ellington. Also featured on the program is an introduction to 20th Century composer Steve Reich as music student Jena Ferguson and Mark Doerries perform Reich's "Clapping Music."

"It is exciting to see the students take on such a wide range of music," said Downes. "There really will be something for everyone on this concert."

Tickets are $5 and are available in advance from an ensemble member, or at the door.

Retired instructor focus of upcoming TV program

Retired OCC instructor and avid ball glove collector David Cunningham will be featured in an upcoming episode of WEIU's Heartland Highway series.

The program will focus on Cunningham's extensive collection of 110 vintage baseball and 39 vintage softball gloves dating from the 1880s to the 1950s. The show is set to air at 7 p.m. on Feb. 25 and at 4 p.m. on Feb. 27. The episode 904 also will be available on WEIU's website at www.weiui.net/hh and will likely be shown on RFD-TV later this year.

Cunningham began collecting gloves 15 years ago and has written three books on the subject. He published "A Fielder's Dream Glove

styles known to exist from the 1880s

Collection," in 2006 and followed it up two years later with "A Visual History of Ball Gloves — Expanded Second Edition." Both offered a visual history of ball gloves showing both the many glove and web to the mid-1950s. The books are included in the Abner Baseball Library at the National Baseball Hall of Fame. His latest book, "Baseball Gloves Merge with America's Past," brings the national pastime and the country's history together as it explores the evolution of baseball gloves.

Cunningham describes his newest book as "more personal" and uses family photos throughout the publication to illustrate the various time periods.

Heartland Highways has been in production since 2002 and in that time, has featured hundreds of unique people and interesting places in Illinois, Indiana and Missouri.

High school seniors invited to 'OCC Music Days'

The Olney Central College Music Department is excited to announce this year's "OCC Music Days," the college's annual event for high school seniors interested in OCC band and choral ensembles. Each day includes the opportunity to meet the OCC music faculty, attend a rehearsal, sit in on an OCC class, as well as play and sing for the ensemble directors, Suzanne Downes and Mark Doerries.

For the 2011-2012 school year, the OCC Music Department is pleased to offer a significant number of half and full college tuition waivers for students enrolled in the ensembles. OCC values music and arts education and increased the Music Department's tuition waiver allotment threefold over the 2010-2011 budget. Director of Choral Activities Mark Doerries said, "We believe in rewarding students for hard work, and passionate music making."

The dates of this year's "OCC Music Days" are Wednesday, Feb. 9; Wednesday, Feb. 16 and Saturday, Feb. 26. Each date offers different opportunities; students are invited to attend a Cavalier Pep Band and OCC basketball game on Wednesday, Feb. 16, and on Saturday, Feb. 26, students may attend the annual Winter Concert at 7:30 p.m. in the Dr. John D. Stull Performing Arts Center.

Students interested in attending should contact their high school band or choral director, or the OCC Music Department directly at 395-7777, ext. 2251.

"We look forward to meeting all interested musicians and introducing them to the artistic and academic benefits Olney Central College offers its students," stated Doerries.

Slichenmyer enjoying new position at OCC

Kathy Slichenmyer has joined Olney Central College as administrative assistant to the president.

Slichenmyer served 21 years as an office assistant for the Illinois Eastern Community College's Upward Bound program, which is located at OCC, before assuming the new post in December.

Slichenmyer's association with OCC dates back to 1987 when she decided to return to school and complete her associate's degree in administrative support. She was employed with the Upward Bound program when she graduated in May 1990.

"The best thing I did was come back to school as a non-traditional student and further my education," she said. "I had worked as a waitress and a bartender and knew that wasn't what I wanted to do for the rest of my life."

Slichenmyer is enjoying her new job and its opportunities.

"I like the fact I get to do a variety of things," she said. "I deal with personnel records and scheduling for the president. I really hadn't thought about changing jobs until I saw this position was open. I decided it would be more stable. With grant programs like Upward Bound, you don't know if the funding will continue and I thought this position would offer more job security."

Slichenmyer also will serve as the OCC Foundation's recording secretary. She is looking forward to working with the organization.

"I'm beginning to see all of the opportunities and benefits the Foundation provides to the college that wouldn't otherwise be available without their funding and gifts," she said.

Slichenmyer enjoys working in the atmosphere that exists at OCC.

She added, "The students, staff and faculty are like one big family to me. You care about the people you work with and for and see every day."

Slichenmyer currently resides in Olney, but grew up in Sumner, the youngest of 10 children. She and her husband, Joe, were married for 28 years before he passed away in January 2010. She has a stepson, Jerry, a daughter-in-law, Sylvia, and two grandsons, Alex and Eric.

Need info to go? You can now text a librarian at OCC

Responding to the popularity of text messaging, students, faculty and staff at Olney Central College can now ask questions and get information from the Anderson Library by text message.

On average, Americans text message almost twice as much as they talk on mobile phones, according to a recent Nielsen Mobile Survey, making it a preferred means of communication while on-the-go.

"Recognizing the increased use of text messaging by patrons of all ages, we felt it important to offer a way to communicate with the library via text messaging," said Charlotte Bruce, Library Director. "The new service provides an easy-to-use interface for our librarians and maintains the privacy of our patrons' information."

To text a librarian:

- Text 66746
- Include keyword OCC in your question
- Ask your question
- A librarian will text an answer

How to text a librarian

For patrons who are unable to ask a librarian in person or online, or those who simply prefer texting over talking, the Text a Librarian service provides a convenient option for getting info on their mobile phone from the helpful reference librarians at the Anderson Library.

With Text a Librarian, patrons ask questions by sending text messages with their mobile phones and librarians answer on a web-based interface, keeping a "live archive" of all the questions and answers. The service does not display phone numbers and generates an anonymous ID for each patron in order to reference conversation history.

Text a Librarian was developed by Mosio, an award-winning mobile technology company that enables companies and institutions to harness the power of mobile communications.

"Mobility is a way of life for most students and increasingly for society in general, making the way in which we stay connected a central issue for many libraries," said Noel Chandler, Mosio CEO. "Text a Librarian makes it possible for students and patrons to tap into the wealth of knowledge of local librarians from their mobile phones, while keeping patron information private and secure."

For more detailed information about the Text a Librarian service at the Anderson Library at Olney Central College please visit <http://www.iecc.edu/occ/lrc> and click on TXT A Librarian at the top of the web page.

File your 2011-2012 FAFSA today

The 2011-2012 FAFSAs (Free Application for Federal Student Aid) are available online at www.fafsa.ed.gov.

You can also find a link to the FAFSA website on the IECC homepage (www.iecc.edu). To ensure the maximum assistance from federal and state aid, you must apply early. Students who attend Summer 2011 must apply for both the 2010-2011 and 2011-2012 FAFSA.

Please be aware that information from your 2010 Federal 1040, 1040A, or 1040EZ, is necessary prior to completing your FAFSA.

If you are a dependent student, information from your parents' 2010 tax return will be required as well.

In 2010-2011 approximately 50 percent of students at OCC did not receive full funding of federal and state financial aid because they did not file early. Students who apply early receive the most aid, as funds are limited.

OCC has a priority deadline of April 15, 2011 for FAFSA filing.
