Students participate in welding competition

Olney Central College students Eric Barnard, of Fairfield, and Alec Arnold, of Olney, participated in the David Nuckols Memorial Invitational Welding Competition on Feb. 1 in Owensboro, Ky.

The annual event is sponsored by Horn Industrial Services and allows students enrolled in secondary and post-secondary welding programs to demonstrate their skills in SMAW, FCAW and GTAW welding processes.

"It was a lot of fun," Barnard said. "We had a chance to go there and see what we could do. It was a good learning experience."

During the competition, students had to set up their machines and perform welding tasks within a one-hour time limit. Judges then assessed each contestant's mastery of procedures.

"The competition gave you a chance to see what you could do under pressure," Arnold said. "I think it helped boost our self-confidence."

Instructor Curtis Marshall said this is the first time students from OCC have participated in

OCC ranked among nation's top community colleges

The Aspen Institute College Excellence Program has ranked Olney Central College as one of the nation's best community colleges for a third time.

Highlighting the critical importance of improving student success in America's community colleges, the Aspen Institute included OCC in its list of the nation's top 150 institutions eligible to compete for the 2015 Aspen Prize for Community College Excellence and the $1 million in prize funds.

The prize, awarded every two years, is the nation's signature recognition of high achievement and performance among America's community colleges. It recognizes institutions for exceptional student outcomes in four areas: student learning, certificate and degree completion, employment and earnings, and high levels of access and success for minority and low-income students.

"This recognition is a testament to the hard work of the faculty and staff at OCC," said Olney Central College President Rodney Raney. "Their focus on student success is reflected in this prestigious honor."

Nearly half of America's college students attend community college, with more than 7 million students – youth and adult learners – working toward certificates and degrees in these institutions across the country.

"Community colleges have tremendous power to change lives, and their success will increasingly define our nation's economic strength and the potential for social mobility for every American," said Josh Wyner, executive director of the Aspen

When the safety of students and staff is threatened due to inclement weather or other emergencies, OCC will be closed or classes canceled or delayed.

Administration will attempt to notify media outlets prior to the 6 a.m. news on the day of the closing.

Don't assume that if the elementary and high schools close, OCC will be closed as well. If no announcement is made, classes will meet as usual.

Closure of day classes does not necessarily mean that evening classes will be canceled. Announcements regarding evening classes will be made prior to 4 p.m., if at all possible.

The following radio and television stations will be notified of any cancellations or delays:

- WVLN-AM and WSEI-FM in Olney

- WIKK in Newton
- WAKO in Lawrenceville
- WFIW-AM and -FM in Fairfield
- WNOI-FM in Flora
- WSJD in Mt. Carmel
- WCRC in Effingham
- WTWO and WTHI in Terre Haute, Ind.

- www.iecc.edu
- www.weatherclosings.com

Closings also are announced through IECC Alerts. When you create an Entrata account you will be automatically registered for an alerts account.

Account creation for alerts will take approximately 24 hours. IECC Alerts will automatically go to your Entrata email account, but you can opt-in for text messages or receive messages at another email account.

To do so, login to Entrata (entrata.iecc.edu) and select Emergency Alerts. Enter your cellular information under the Text and Voice Preferences section. A phone number is required. The cellular provider is optional. You also may enter another email address in the Email Preferences area. Once changes are completed, click save.

While there is no direct cost for signing up for this text message service, you may be charged a text message fee by your cell phone provider.

Lindsey Buck joins Learning Skills Center

Lindsey Buck has joined Olney Central College's Learning Skills Center as its new Developmental Support Specialist.

"I'm looking forward to helping as many people as I can to be successful in reaching their educational goals," she said. "I like working with people and I think this will be a rewarding experience."

Buck previously served as an elementary music teacher in the Fairfield Public School District and taught two years in the Flora Community Unit School District. For the past two semesters, she has been a GED instructor at OCC.

Lindsey Buck

"I felt like I made a difference with the GED students in helping them to be successful with the rest of their lives," she said. "I really enjoyed it and I am going to miss it."

Buck will continue assisting OCC students in her new position as she ensures they have the accommodations they need to be successful in the classroom. She will administer the COMPASS Test as well as other exams for the LSC, which help to pinpoint learning issues.

Buck also wants to increase awareness about the Learning Skills Center and the services it provides.

"I don't think a lot of students know we are here unless they are referred to us," she said. "We want them to know if there is anything they might be struggling with in their education or that is holding them back from being successful, we can help."

Accommodations the LSC can provide include testing in a quiet place, free tutoring and vision and hearing screening vouchers.

Buck earned an associate's degree from OCC and received her bachelor's degree in elementary education from Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. She completed a master's degree in administration at Eastern Illinois University.

Institute College Excellence Program. "This competition is designed to spotlight the excellent work being done in the most effective community colleges, those that best help students obtain meaningful, high-quality education and training for competitive-wage jobs after college. We hope it will raise the bar and provide a roadmap for community colleges nationwide."

The Aspen Institute identified the top community colleges through an assessment of institutional performance, improvement and equity on student retention and completion measures. These institutions are located in 37 states across the nation and represent urban, rural and suburban areas. Their enrollments range from fewer than 500 students to more than 100,000.

OCC and the other institutions have been invited to submit applications containing detailed data on degree and certificate completion, including progress and transfer rates; labor market outcomes, employment and earnings; and student learning outcomes. The community colleges must demonstrate that they deliver exceptional student results for all students — including those from racial minority and/or low-income backgrounds — and also use data to drive decisions and to continually improve over time.

The Aspen Institute will then conduct site visits to each of the finalists and collect additional quantitative data, including employment and earnings data from states and transfer data from the National Student Clearinghouse. A distinguished prize jury will select a grand-prize winner and a few finalists with distinction in early 2015.

The Aspen Prize is funded by the Bank of America Charitable Foundation, Joyce Foundation, W.K. Kellogg Foundation and Lumina Foundation.

A full list of the 150 community colleges is available at www.AspenPrize.org.

Career Services now accepting appointments

Olney Central College students preparing to graduate this spring should schedule an appointment to meet with OCC's Career Services Coordinator Allan Alldredge.

Alldredge can help students through all aspects of the job-hunting process.

He also can assist them with career searches and assessments as well as help them enhance their resume writing and interviewing skills.

In addition, he can provide students with information from job banks.

To schedule an appointment or for more information, call 395-7777, ext. 2019.

Music Department to hold Winter Concert

The OCC Music Department will present its Winter Concert at 7:30 p.m. on Friday, Feb. 28 and Saturday, March 1 in the Dr. John D. Stull Performing Arts Center.

The concert will feature the OCC Concert Band, Concert Choir and Jazz Ensemble.

This season the OCC Music Department is celebrating the 50th Anniversary of Olney Central College by applying its theme, "Celebrating Our Past, Looking To Our Future," to the programming for the year. Music of the past, present and future will be featured in all of the concerts, culminating in the Alumni Reunion Ensembles that will be presented on the April 11 Spring Concert.

The Concert Band will present a program based on the theme "Life Lessons." Selections will include "At Water's Edge" by Gary Gilroy, and highlights from the musical "Wicked."

The Concert Choir will present highlights from the Gilbert and Sullivan favorite The "Pirates of Penzance." The scenes will be presented in "black box" style, meaning no set, minimal staging and costumes.

The "Pirates of Penzance" was the only Gilbert and Sullivan opera to have its official premiere in the United States in 1879. In 1939, "Pirates" appeared on one of the first experimental broadcasts of the new medium of television. Poking fun at social conventions, the law and romance, lines from "Pirates" found their way into everyday speech, much the way lines from popular television shows and films do today.

The Jazz Ensemble will be embracing the history of America's iconic musical art form by featuring songs that highlight the history of jazz.

The ensemble will begin in New Orleans with Dixieland jazz selections, then move to the Big Band Era with the music of Duke Ellington, Bop through the eyes of Thelonious Monk, and will conclude with the fusion favorite "Birdland."

Admission is $5 and tickets will be available at the door, or in advance from any ensemble member. For more information about this concert, or how to participate in the Alumni Reunion Ensembles on the Spring Concert, please visit the OCC Music website at www.occmusic.org.

SNA hosting organ/tissue donor drives

The Student Nurses Association at Olney Central College is partnering with the Illinois Secretary of State's Organ/Tissue Donor Program in its new "Be A Hero" Campaign.

This life-saving mission is designed to promote organ and tissue donor awareness and to increase registration in Illinois.

SNA members will host two upcoming organ donation registry drives. The first will be held in conjunction with the Student Senate blood drive on Feb. 21. This is an opportunity for individuals to add their names to the registry from 8 a.m. to noon in the Student Union. The second drive will be March 15 at the IGA in Olney.

OCC encourages everyone to take this opportunity to add their names to the registry. If you didn't sign up to become an organ or tissue donor when obtaining your driver's license or were unable to do so because of age restrictions, this is your opportunity to participate and Be a Hero. One donor can save or enhance the lives of more than 25 people.

According to the Secretary of State's Office, nearly 5,000 people in Illinois are currently waiting for a life-saving organ. An average of 18 people die each day waiting to receive a transplant.

For additional information, visit the Illinois Organ/Tissue Donor Registry site at www.life-goeson.com. You also can contact committee representatives Shawna Rutien and Em Hunt or SNA Advisor Sharen Wolke.

Massage Therapy can help those suffering text neck

Are you suffering from text neck? Text neck is the pain and a multitude of symptoms that result from texting, phoning, emailing and other activities performed with mobile devices such as smartphones, tablets and readers.

The most common complaints affiliated with the condition are headaches, neck, shoulder and arm pain, as well as numbness and tingling of the upper extremities.

These symptoms are due to prolonged, forward-head posture — the forward bending of the neck to look down at hand-held devices.

This action puts excessive strains on the muscles, ligaments and tendons on the backside of your head, neck and upper back. It can also contribute to permanent and irreversible changes in the vertebral joints of your spine. It also can lead to the loss of cervical curve and even arthritis.

Instructor Penny Campbell-Henry said massage therapy can relieve many of these symptoms. The program is currently offering spring clinicals. To schedule an appointment, call 395-2430.

LSC offering free tutoring for students

Need help with a class? Olney Central College's Learning Skills Center offers free tutoring in any subject taught at OCC.
