Online Courses Offer Flexibility and Convenience

Frontier Community College’s (FCC) online courses offer flexibility and convenience for many students. Online courses give students the opportunity to arrange their study time around their own personal schedule. Online courses are a good option for students who are trying to balance work schedules, family, and coursework.

The 2015 fall semester online courses include:

- ASE 0803, GED Test Preparation, instructor Dena Weber
- BUS 1101, Introduction to Business, instructor Connie Tilley
- BUS 2201, Principles of Management, instructor Connie Tilley
- EDU 1107, Health, instructor Lisa Fieber
- HEC 1101, Nutrition, instructor Lisa Fieber
- LSC 1101, General Biology I, instructor Nixie Hnetkovsky

Registration Deadline
Online courses begin August 20 and end December 18, with the exception of the GED Test Prep, which ends October 15. The deadline to register for an online course is August 19, and students are required to complete the free online tutorial, CIS 1104, Intro to Online Learning.

Online registration is available through the student’s Entrata account at www.iecc.edu.

Tuition
Tuition is $83 per semester hour – a fraction of the cost at a university. There is an additional $15 per semester hour charge for fees.

Textbooks
Textbooks can be purchased at the FCC Bookstore with optional UPS shipping. The fall textbook list with title, USB, and purchase price is available at www.iecc.edu/fcc. To purchase books by phone, contact Scott Talbert at (618) 842-3711 or 1-877-464-3687.

Contact Frontier Community College
(618) 842-3711. Or 1-877-464-3687